All soldiers are ford of a mascot. Company I had one in the shape of a raven, which was handed on the train when the regiment was at Lexinston. In honor of Kentneky's United States Senitor it was named Jim Blackburn. It got familiar with all the men and visited all the company tents, showing the same thievigh propensity that distinguished the celebrated "Jackdaw of Rheims," whose amusing their of the archibishop's ring is so amusingly Legends," but unlike that more famous jackdaw, its mishaps ended in a tragic career. It appropriated to itself every small article it could manage to hold in its bill, and having stolen a penell one day it swallowed it and was choked to death. Company I, of the regiment has a good as its mascot.

BRIGADE READQUARTERS.
Brigade headquarters were established yesterday afternoon a short distance above Camp Warburton, on Washington avenue. Ceneral Grant visited headquarters, in company with his son Diysses, just after the large double tenthad been erected and later drove over the grounds of the entire encampment. The chief characteristic of the camp yesterday, previous to the welcome rain, was the dust, which blew everywhere so thick that at times one could see only a short distance away.

THE END IN SIGHT

Memorable Conference at the White House.

PEACE TERMS MODIFIED

Then began the discussion point by point. The President and ambassador addressed each other with the greatest freedom and frankness, each maintaining the points involved. When at last, after an eloquent plea by the ambassador, it was agreed to modify the conditions in one particular. Secretary pay withdrew for an hour and attended to durating the modification. This accomplished, the ambassador addressed himself to the President, not so much as the advocate of Spain, but personally, having with the President, in the president of the president and for man, a like interest in humanity. M. Cawhon is a man of fervil eloquence and he spoke with an intensity of feeling, which made a deep limpression on the President and others, lie spoke in French, each sentence being caught up and interpreted by M. Thiebault, so that the carnestness of the ambassador lost little by this indirect method of communication.

The President spoke with equal frankness, and in the lengthy diseasation.

lished in place of the old Bund, while the South German States and offensive and defensive alliance was concluded, siving the king of Prussia supreme command of all their troops in time of war. Of the North German Bund Count Bismarck was created chancellor and president of the federal council, in addition to these successes, Count Bismarck obtained great popularity for creating a representative branch for the new federal government on the basis of manhead suffrage. The diet which first assembled in 1867 consisted of delegates representing a nation of 29,000,000 Germanes and the suffrage. The diet which first assembled in 1867 consisted of delegates representing a nation of 29,000,000 Germans, Bismarck's next achievement was to prevent the attempted annexation of Luxembourg by Napoleon III. In 1863 Bismarck withdrew for some months from active public life, but he was in conver again before the end of the year. Then came the Pranco-German war of 1870, and after a campaign, consisting of an unbroken line of victoires, King William was able, through his chancellor, to dictante terms of peace to his helploss assailant.

Bismarck has been far less fortunate than in his diplomatic negotiations.

Equally severe was his policy with regard to the social Demecrats, his draconic measures against whom produced the profoundest discontent among the working classes in the large cities.

Prince Bismarck took a prominent part in connection with the triple alliance between Germany. Austria and tady, which is understood to be directed against a possible alliance between Russia and France against the German towers.

Russia and France against the powers.
The publication of the late Emperor Prederick's diary, in September, 1983, threw a new light upon some of the imperial transactions in which Prince Bismarch has been engaged. Much sensation was created, both in Germany sation was created, both in Germany
